

Remove Peril Of New Blast At Texas City; Check Blaze

Texas City, Tex., April 22 (AP)—Trigger-tense Texas City was thrown into frightened excitement today when a warehouse containing 1,000 tons of ammonium nitrate caught fire and burned for two hours. It was extinguished at 11:25 a. m. (CST).

A reporter for the Houston Chronicle, shortly before noon, said the fire had been put out and that Mayor J. C. Trahan and other officials said danger of an explosion had been removed.

Earlier Deputy Mayor John Hill said that "an explosion could occur at any time."

The cause of the fire was not determined, but a Houston Chronicle staffer at the scene said it broke out shortly after 9:10 a. m., almost the same minute the Wednesday first blast occurred aboard the French ship Grandcamp.

Smoke Obscures City

Huge clouds of smoke again obscured tragedy-torn Texas City.

The Galveston Tribune said radio men had been called to Texas City suddenly, but knew no details of the new fire except that it had broken out.

The city was returning to normal today when the new danger occurred.

The streets were jammed with traffic, stores were open, and the routine of life was gradually being restored.

Ready to Evacuate City

Many citizens, understandably nervous after the series of ammonium nitrate explosions and fires last week, were reported packing up, ready to evacuate the city again.

Mayor J. C. Trahan and his disaster deputy, Hill, said that downtown Texas City was in no apparent immediate danger of another explosion. They promised to notify citizens immediately by radio, if and when danger appears imminent.

The newest fire is in the remains of a warehouse belonging to the Texas City terminal railway company, near the searail dock where the Grandcamp blew up, according to W. H. Sandberg, vice president of the company. It is located more than a mile from downtown Texas City.

1,000 Tons Stored There

"I don't think there is more than 1,000 tons of ammonium nitrate in there," Sandberg told reporters. "The Grandcamp was reported to have had 2,300 tons aboard."

No salvage workers were on the job in the vicinity of the burning warehouse, but residents nearby were "asked" to come to the downtown area "until we find out what goes on," Trahan said.

A fire boat was standing in the bay, and land fire fighting equipment has been ordered to stand by. However, no equipment is being sent into the danger area until further orders.

No flames were visible, but the warehouse was smoking heavily—the characteristic deep orange color which residents of Texas City have learned to fear.

There was no immediate explanation of how the 1,000 tons of ammonium nitrate could have stayed in the inferno that raged around it for nearly a week without catching fire, the Chronicle said.

BULLETINS

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—More than 2,000 school teachers of Pennsylvania placed appeals before the General Assembly today for higher salaries "to meet the current need of the school crisis of our state."

Fred W. Hosler, president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, urged the House education committee, with members of the Senate committee also sitting in at the public hearing, to support a bill that would raise mandated minimum salaries from $1,400 to $2,400 a year and place the maximum at $3,800, with holders of master degrees receiving $4,400.

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Opponents launched an admittedly futile last-hour attack on the Greek-Turkish assistance program today as the Senate drove toward a 4 p. m. (EST) vote on it. Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D.-Colo.), chief opponent of the measure called it one of "Middle East aggression."

Moscow, April 22 (AP)—The Council of Foreign Ministers went into a second secret session of the day this afternoon in an effort to reach an accord on the Austrian peace treaty. It was the third such meeting, but no conclusive results were announced on the apparently stalemated issues.

Detroit, April 22 (AP)—A negotiating session between the CIO United Auto Workers and General Motors corporation, was delayed without explanation today as reports persisted that they were nearing an agreement on wage issues. A spokesman (Please turn to Page 2)

A. W. Dittmore, for the past 22 years a lecturer in public schools and an instructor in police schools throughout the nation, spoke on "Crime and Delinquency" this morning at a special assembly at the high school. This afternoon he addressed the student body at Lincoln school.

A former Chicago and St. Louis gangster, he has devoted himself to the prevention of crime since serving time in prison. Superintendent Lloyd C. Keefe said in introducing Dittmore. The talk today was the second at the high school here. He spoke here previously in 1935.

Crime costs each individual in the U. S. $150 a year, he declared in terms much crime avoidable. "You as an individual are often as much to blame as the criminal," he claimed.

Injured When Car Overturns Monday

James H. Spalding, West King street, Littlestown, was taken to the Hanover hospital in the Littlestown ambulance this morning for X-ray examination of injuries Spalding received when his car overturned on the Littlestown-Bonneauville road about 8:30 o'clock Monday evening. The car was considerably damaged. Details of the accident were lacking.

Spalding, who is in business with his father, Howard J. Spalding, a livestock dealer, returned to his home after the mishap but called Dr. Coover this morning. Doctor Coover ordered him to the hospital. Results of the X-ray examination were not known this afternoon but hospital attaches said Spalding may have a broken right shoulder.

DR. KEEFAUVER IS REELECTED BY TB SOCIETY

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefeauver was re-elected president of the Adams County Tuberculosis society Monday evening at the annual reorganization session of the association in the Red Cross offices on Baltimore street.

Ralph S. Oyler was re-elected vice president; Miss Helen Spangler, secretary and W. A. Keeney, treasurer. A new officer, second vice president, was created and William M. Lott was named to fill that post.

A budget for $1,800 was adopted for the coming year. Last year, reports at the meeting disclosed, the society spent $2,599.42, of which $1,000 was given toward the establishment of a demonstration nursing service in all of the schools of the county. That expense will probably not be called for again this year.

Doctor Keefeauver pointed out, with a bill now before the state Legislature to provide such nursing service at state expense sure of passage.

To Improve Clinic Room

The society voted $300 "as a start" to go toward renovating "and/or" equipping the clinic room at the Warner hospital now being used for the TB and other clinics.

Nurses Seeking Quarters For Needy Family Of Ten

Adams county's state nurses today were seeking for a house, or any kind of a structure that could be turned into a home for a family of ten.

This was the family's story as the nurses told it.

The father, mother and eight children, ranging in age from eight months to 14 years, had to leave their former home several weeks ago. The father is ill and unable to work.

There was no place for them to go, so they bought a one-room home-made trailer and moved to a field near Gettysburg.

Since then they have lived in the trailer. Most of their belongings are piled about the trailer, out of doors, being slowly destroyed by the wind and rain.

Inside the trailer is a large bed where the parents and six of the children sleep at night. Two of the smaller ones sleep in a box-like bed fixed for them. There is room in the

OLDEN SHULTZ CONVICTED OF BLASTING FISH

Olden Shultz, 35, Biglerville R. D., was convicted of setting off a charge of explosives in Marsh Creek the evening before the opening of the 1947 trout season, at a hearing before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore Monday night.

Shultz denied the charge although two witnesses said he was seen coming out of the brush near a bridge over Marsh creek, north of Cash-town and just above the Hartman dam, shortly after they heard what sounded like an explosion. Shultz said he wasn't anywhere near the deep pool by the old hemlock tree where William W. Britton, Chambersburg, fish warden, said dozens of fish had been killed "by concussion."

The defendant was fined $100 and costs.

Posts Bail For Appeal

"Pay a $100 fine? I guess not. I'll appeal. I'll take it to the Supreme Court if necessary," Shultz declared. He posted bail of $300 again with one of three resources left to him: he must file an appeal within five days through an attorney, or pay the fine and costs, or go to jail.

Shultz was arrested on April 17 by State Policeman James Walsh after the alleged blasting of the creek pool on April 14 had been investigated by Walsh and Britton. He was released in $300 bail for Monday night's hearing. Walsh testified Monday night that Shultz "told me at least ten or 15 versions of this thing," but Shultz, in the role of witness in his own defense Monday night said "I was too scared to tell the truth."

Elaborating on this "scared business," Shultz said that "a couple of other fellows got caught for bootlegging. Me and another fellow got away. I was scared."

Britton Testifies

First witness called by Prosecutor Britton at Monday's hearing was himself. He testified that he saw several dead suckers and trout on the bank of the creek and more in the water. Their bladders were burst and in some cases their stomachs had been ripped open. (Please turn to Page 3)

Will Inspect New 65-Foot Aerial Truck

A special committee of the Gettysburg Fire company, which has been considering the purchase of a 65-foot aerial truck to add to its present fire-fighting equipment, will go to Wilmington, Del., Wednesday, to investigate the possibility of acquiring a ladder truck now in use by the Wilmington Fire Department.

William G. Weaver, chairman of the committee, said today.

Although the truck, which is of the 65-foot type, has been in use in the Wilmington department for the past 20 years, it is reported to be in good condition, and has been driven less than 5,000 miles. It can be purchased for less than $2,000, Mr. Weaver said. It was manufactured by the American La France company of Elmira, N. Y.

SAYS RECORDS EXAGGERATING "DELINQUENCY"

Statistical records on juvenile delinquency show a much greater problem than the one that actually exists, Judge W. C. Sheely indicated Monday evening in a talk given before the local Rotary club at its regular meeting in the YWCA.

"Much of the statistical increase in delinquency is due to the fact that a child is considered delinquent whenever he violates any law of the state or any borough ordinance," the judge pointed out.

"Thus a child who rides a bicycle on the sidewalk is, in the statistics, a delinquent. To me real delinquency is something deeper than the violation of a borough ordinance by a youngster whose only fault may be that he did not know there was an ordinance covering what seems to him to be a minor matter."

"Real delinquency implies something much deeper, and yet because the child riding a bicycle on the sidewalk is properly brought before juvenile court, his case is added to the statistics."

Cites Slight Cases

"Then there are all of the motor code violations involving boys and girls under 18. All of them under the law come to juvenile court rather than before a justice of the peace. Thus the young 'cowboy' drivers become part of the juvenile delinquency statistics. They are properly brought before the juvenile court, as are youngsters who may remove some vegetables from a garden because they know no better, or youngsters who may be truants from school."

"I think the real test of delinquency consists in the nature of the crime and in the number who return on second offenses. Very few Adams county youngsters are brought back a second time, and very few commit crimes so serious they need to be sent to institutions."

"As a result it would seem that there is no very serious juvenile delinquency problem in Adams county. (Please turn to Page 2)

Nine Killed When Planes Collide, Crash In Flames

Columbus, Ga., April 22 (AP)—Nine persons were killed today when a special Delta Airlines plane carrying eight employees of the company, including one top official, collided with a civilian plane and both crashed onto the airport here where they were enveloped in flames.

The Delta plane was coming into the airport for a landing when, airline officials said, the civilian plane "came down from overhead and struck the tail of our ship." Both planes plunged 30 feet to the ground, the civilian plane falling underneath the tail of the Delta ship which had broken in half.

The two planes burned for more than an hour after the crash. Flames made it impossible to rescue any of the victims.

The Delta plane was "on a survey flight. The name of the civilian plane pilot, the ninth victim of the crash, was not learned immediately. Delta listed its dead as: George

TOYNBEE SAYS YANKS SHOULD TAKE LEAD IN WORLD AFFAIRS

"America has 'know-how' in human relations as great, if not greater than, its technological 'know-how'." Dr. Arnold J. Toynbee, widely acclaimed British historian-philosopher told an audience of more than 1000 Monday afternoon at the Majestic theater. He spoke under the auspices of Gettysburg college.

He professed himself as "somewhat amazed" at the way in which "Americans seem to be embarrassed" by the idea that America engage in political or human relations activities in other countries.

"During the past several weeks I have been talking to many audiences," he added, "and the present discussion on loans to Greece and Turkey seems to be on the minds of many of the people with whom I talked. There seems to be quite a difference of opinion concerning the taking on of economic and technological responsibilities and the taking on of political responsibilities. You appear to like the prospect of feeding the Greeks, reforming their currency, building their roads and bridges. You feel confident in these fields."

"Yet this may not be the important thing. The important thing may be politics. Perhaps the Greek parties in power have not learned how to treat the party not in power. The U. S. may have to reform the politics, the courts of justice, the police and similar portions of the Greek government. You may have to take the political prisoners out of jail. But you seem to steer away from this problem."

"The U. S. has great confidence in its technological skills. These were achieved during the nineteenth century when America was making a continent, opening its mineral resources, taming its rivers. All of this gave America power, but it was dealing with non-human forces."

"Now we have the human problem. (Please turn to Page 5)

although the number of cases brought before the court has increased over the years. There is a very good reason for that. Thirty years ago there were few motor code violations by juveniles because there were very few cars and very few youngsters driving.

Many Trifling Cases

"A youngster twenty years ago stealing carrots from a garden was usually handled at home, rather than brought into court.

"But I am glad that many cases are brought to the court because it permits the court to go deeper into the case and solve the problem that caused the youngster to be delinquent. In many cases there are situations that should be cleared up at home and the parent and child brought together in juvenile court can quickly clear up many of those problems."

Judge Sheely said that there is a 40 per cent reduction in juvenile cases in Adams county since 1944, the peak year here.

One of the great problems of the court is determining which institution is the right one to send a youngster, the Judge said. Pennsylvania, he added, has very poor facilities for handling its younger male youngsters.

MACK LAMENTS OTHER OUTFITS KEEP A'S DOWN

By LEE LINDER.

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—Connie Mack didn't say it in exactly these words—but he indicates he thinks the 15 other major league teams like a consistent loser and thus won't help his Philadelphia Athletics.

"Nobody wants to help us," the 84-year-old American league owner-manager laments. "Once they get you down, by gosh, they keep you there."

And the man who sports the title of "Mr. Baseball" isn't kidding. Since 1935, the A's have finished in the cellar nine times; seventh, twice. In 1944 the club virtually outdid itself—"even surprising me," Mack said—and finished in a tie for fifth with the Cleveland Indians.

Says Teams Won't Trade
Already the Mackmen, with the 1947 season just a week old, are in the basement—"and there's nothing at this time that we can do to change the outlook," Mack stated.

"Teams don't have ball players they want to trade to us," Connie reports, without the twinkle in his eye. "And when they do want to get rid of a guy, by heck we don't want him either."

"I want to give Philadelphia a winning ball club, but it won't be this year."

"I don't know when we'll get a winner."

Mack, once a major league catcher himself, turned on a smile as he looked back on his championship club of 1929-30-31.

"We had a hitting, fielding and pitching team then. They were pretty good, pretty good."

Connie turned to 1947.

Infield "Not So Hot"
"I've been pretty disappointed with the hitting this year," he said. "But we've got a good outfield, anyway. About the infield? By gosh, I know they're not so hot, but they try hard and they play good ball. I hope we might pick up a pitcher in the next couple weeks, but nobody has any hope for us."

"Though we've lost five of six, we've been playing good baseball, and can promise our fans that we will continue to do so."

"But we can't promise to win." Mack said his A's played the two toughest teams in the American league—Boston and New York—"and Boston is certain to win the pennant again."

"The Red Sox really have a ball club—good outfield, swell infield, four nifty pitchers, and don't forget Ted Williams."

Well—about his A's...

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 22 (AP)—So many colts seem to have eliminated themselves as Kentucky Derby prospects that there likely will be a heck of a field in the $100,000 gallop at Churchill Downs May 3. . . If that seems confusing, it works out this way: The only real stand-out so far is Phalanx, winner of last Saturday's better division of the Wood Memorial. . . Then come a few "possibles" such as Faultless, Double Jay, On Trust and Jet Pilot. . . From there on nobody knows and there's only an outside chance that the Blue Grass stakes Thursday and the Chesapeake Saturday will do more than possibly add a few names to the record of those who have eliminated themselves. . . But it's a matter of record that only 35 favorites have won in 72 derbies and that some horrible things can happen to favorites, especially if they draw one of those inside post positions. So we figure a lot of owners will risk the $1,000 starting fee on the chance that Phalanx and maybe a few others will be caught in a jam. . . But don't bet on it.

Pete Reiser (discussing Dodger Manager Burt Shotton)—"he never raises his voice no matter what happens. I think we'll be all right when we get used to it."

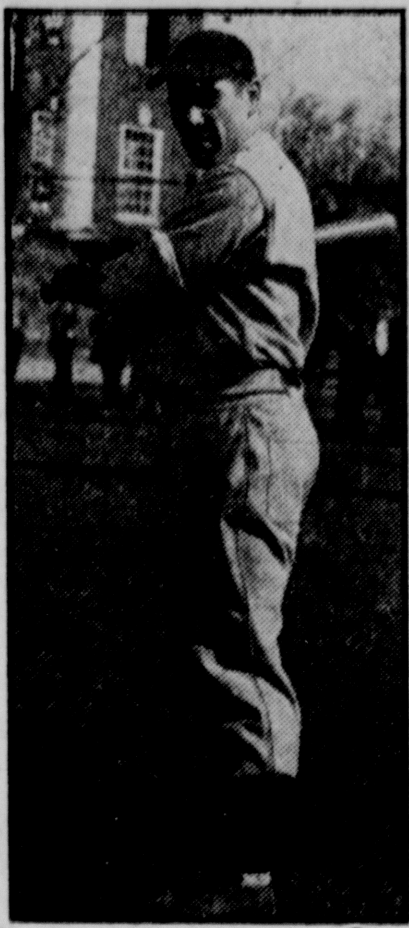

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

The N. B. A. is querying Willie Pep as to when he'll be able to defend his featherweight title. But Willie's left leg, fractured in a plane crash, won't tell him. He still limps and the leg hurts when he tries to run. The Philadelphia Warriors have been awarded a trophy by an air line as "the most air-minded sports team in America." The basketballers took planes for every trip over 100 miles this season. . . Virginia Tech, which thinks a lot of footballer John (Greek) Maskas, has another athlete from Maskas' home town of Monessen, Pa. He's Tony Kajawa, who had been a German POW so long he couldn't get into playing condition last season. . . The Dodgers are thinking of asking Burt Shotton to rescind Leo Durocher's no-card-playing rule. Maybe some of them could give Branch Rickey competition at bridge.

WAGNER CLAIMS PIRATE SUCCESS DUE TO OWNERS

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—It's no mystery to Honus Wagner, veteran coach, why the Pittsburgh Pirates are atop the National league standings.

"The answer is quite simple," said the Flying Dutchman here for a speaking engagement. "It's the new owners—Mr. McKinney (president of the club) Tom Johnson and that guy, Bing Crosby."

"They've been on hand for every game and have got the players so fired up that we look like a great ball club."

But old Honus, well past 70 years, hates to think of what might happen when "that guy Crosby" goes back to crooning and picture making.

Praises Billy Herman
"Keep him around all season and we'd be mighty hard to beat for the pennant," he added. "I don't know what it is but Bing, Mr. McKinney and Tom Johnson have done something to make the same outfit that finished in seventh place last year. They're great guys."

Wagner also extolled the team spirit imbued by Billy Herman, the new Buc manager.

"He knows what it is all about," said Honus. "The boys like to play for him and there is not one bit of jealousy over the presence of high salaried Hank Greenberg."

"You should have seen Greenberg in spring training. He was just another player. Ready to give a rookie a helpful hand, anxious to do his bit."

Says Game Improved
Honus, rated the greatest shortstop of all times, is a firm believer that baseball of today has improved since he bowed out of active competition during the first World War.

"But it's not near as rough," said the Dutchman whose first professional contract with Steubenville, Ohio, called for only $35 a month. He recalled the days when the players sharpened or donned new spikes in order to get even with a rival team.

"We had to be able to give it as well as take it in those days," he added. "But I like the game as it is played today much better. Maybe the players don't know so many cute tricks as we did but they produce a better brand of baseball."

EASTERN OPENS ITS 25TH YEAR

Williamsport, Pa., April 22 (AP)—

The Eastern league opens its 25th campaign tomorrow with every club strengthened in playing material and every ball park refurbished for what President Thomas H. Richardson anticipates will be "one of our greatest seasons in history."

Richardson said "it has been the aim of every club to make facilities as comfortable as possible for the fans" and pointed out that at Bowman Field alone the Williamsport management has spent upwards of $38,000 on the 21-year-old ball park.

The silver anniversary year gets under way with a large crop of outstanding rookies seeking to fill gaps left by advancement of players to leagues of higher classifications, while many veterans have returned to seek posts they held before going into service, Richardson declared.

Four New Managers

Four clubs have new managers, with Merrill May, former star of the Philadelphia Phillies, at Albany; Eddie Popowski at Scranton; Bill Norman at Wilkes-Barre; and George Detore at Williamsport.

Scranton will defend its 1946 championship, but a much closer pace is anticipated, Richardson said, with all clubs anxious to displace the Boston Red Sox farm club.

Opening day games find Scranton at home with their traditional rivals from Wilkes-Barre; while Elmira plays at Williamsport; Hartford at Albany; and Binghamton at Utica.

CHISOX WALLOP HAL NEWHOUSER TO WIN UPSET

By JOE REICHLER

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Judging from early returns, the attendance at the major league baseball parks this season should come pretty close to matching last year's record.

Despite poor weather which has caused the postponement of 16 games during the first week of action and cut into the crowds in others, the 16 big league clubs drew a combined total of 788,991 cash customers, an average of 18,309 per game.

During the first week a year ago, the majors, taking advantage of perfect baseball weather, got in 50 of their 52 scheduled games which attracted an average of 20,028 per game.

With the increase in the number of night games and added interest in such cities as Pittsburgh and Cleveland, where new owners have taken over, it is not inconceivable that the 1947 attendance will approach, if not top, last year's amazing figures.

Get Ten Safeties

Yesterday only two of the five scheduled games were played. The limited action produced one big upset as the surprising Chicago White Sox, taking liberties with the left-handed shots of Hurricane Hal Newhouser, the Detroit ace, slapped down the Tigers 6-4 to remain unbeaten atop the American league standings. In registering their third victory of the campaign, Ted Lyons' crew nudged Newhouser and two successors for 10 safeties, four of them for extra bases.

It was not until the fifth inning that the Tigers managed to score. Chicago pitchers had a record of 22 straight scoreless innings until then.

"The Sox swatted Newhouser for five runs in the first five innings to settle the issue. Newhouser was wild, walking five men during that time."

Hodgin In Hospital

He uncorked a wild pitch in the first inning that conked Ralph Hodgins and sent the Chicago outfielder to a Detroit hospital with a concussion and a bad bruise. Hodgins' condition later was reported as "satisfactory."

In the National league's only contest, the Chicago Cubs, behind Hank Wyse's three hit pitching, won their third straight by blanking the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 at Wrigley field. A slow-rolling infield hit by Ray Lamano in the second inning was the only safety allowed by Wyse until the ninth. Then Bobby Adams and Lamano each singled.

Kent Peterson, making his first major league start, matched Wyse's airtight pitching except for the sixth inning when the Cubs broke loose for five singles and all their runs. Len Merullo led the Cubs' 10-hit attack with four safe blows.

Rain washed out the scheduled games between Boston and Washington in the American league and Brooklyn-Boston and New York-Philadelphia in the National.

Warriors Hoping For Title Tonight

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors, sporting a 3-1 advantage in the playoff for the Basketball Association of America championship, take on the Chicago Stags tonight hoping to bring a swift end to the playoff.

The Stags ended the Warriors' streak with a 74-73 victory at Chicago Sunday night. It was Chicago's best form of the series since turning back Washington in the semi-final round.

The return to form of Max Zaslofsky, the BAA's fifth leading scorer, raised Chicago's hopes of a final rush to the title. Zaslofsky, whose scoring had been restricted in the first three games, rimmed 20 points, all on outside shots.

Much of the Warrior hopes lay with Joe Fulks, who has scored 1,577 points in 69 games this season—the greatest total in recorded basketball history. Fulks, hampered by four personal fouls in the early moments of Sunday's game, managed to tally 21 points despite the fact he played only 32 of the 48 minutes.

Detroit Bowlers May Upset Marks

Los Angeles, April 22 (AP)—There was only one new name in the American Bowling Congress leaders' list today.

George Tomek of Tunkhannock, Pa., topped 1,928 pins last night to land in fourth place in the all-events division.

Big doings were possible tonight, however, when the two top teams from Detroit, a bowling hotbed, will shoot for the 3,023 team lead now held by New York's Brunswick Minnerlates. They are the E. and B. Beer quintet and the Ira Wilson and Sons dairy team.

The E. and B.'s, recognized as one of the nation's best, are headed by Therm Gibson, boasting an all-league average of 218, and include George Young, Fred Bujaek, Chet Bukowski and Capt. Ernie Sielaff. Last week in Detroit the Ira Wilson crowd rolled a 3,381 series.

Calif., knocked out Jota Fernandez, 155, Caracas, Venezuela, 6.

New York—Norman Rubio, 148, Troy, N. Y., outpointed Wayland Douglas, 148, Brooklyn, 10.

Chandler Rejects Durocher Appeal

Cincinnati, April 22 (AP)—Four one-syllable words, "The case is closed," today snuffed out hopes of the Brooklyn Dodgers that Leo Durocher might manage the team at least part of this season.

They came from baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler yesterday as he rejected a request by Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, and Ford Frick, National league president, that he reconsider the one-year suspension he imposed on the Brooklyn manager April 9.

Rickey and Frick appeared before the commissioner accompanied by Arthur Mann, Rickey's assistant, and Walter O'Malley and Judge Henry L. Ughetta, part owners of the club.

SOFTBALL LOOP OKAYS 16 FOR TEAM ROSTERS

Sixteen players will be permitted on the roster of each team in the Community Softball league it was decided at a meeting of officials Monday evening at the Moose home on York street.

President Ralph Johnson presided with all teams represented with the exception of the Texas Lunch.

A schedule, calling for each team to meet each other team four times during the season, was approved. Opening games will be played on Tuesday, May 13. The regular season will end on August 14. Each team will play two games a week with contests listed for Tuesday and Thursday.

Kenneth Knox, of the Gettysburg News Agency, attended the meeting and announced that the Agency will present an engraved trophy to the winning team.

Another meeting was scheduled for Monday, May 5, at the Moose home.

"indicating they had died of concussion."

Charles Crider, Biglerville R. 2, who lives near the creek, said he heard an explosion, but did not investigate. Bruce Gallagher, who also lives nearby, heard it, and did investigate.

"I heard the explosion," Gallagher testified. "I walked down to the bridge, and saw Dewey Bucher there. There was another car parked there too. I asked Bucher if he heard the explosion and he said 'No.' Then I walked down to the dam and came back. When I got back I saw Shultz, talking to Bucher. The bottoms of his pants were wet for six to eight inches."

Bucher, who gave a Cashtown address, said there is a dumping ground located near the bridge and that he drove there with a load of tin cans.

"I saw a car parked to the right of the road, leading to the dump," Bucher said. "I saw Shultz coming out of the brush, walking downstream."

Different Versions

State Policeman Walsh, who is attached to the Gettysburg substation, testified that when he questioned Shultz on April 17, the latter first said he was in Gettysburg with Charles Cullison during the afternoon of April 14, and "did not go near that portion of the creek."

Walsh said Shultz then admitted, under continued questioning, that he was there, but did not go near the upper portion where the old hemlock tree and the deep pool where the fish were killed are located.

Shultz said he and Cullison went to a chemical plant here in the afternoon to get spray material.

"My pants got wet at Oyler and Spangler's," he said.

Then he stopped at a local tavern, again at Cashtown, went home to supper and was going to see "Sponseller" about moving him, when he drove up the road toward the creek, he said. Approaching the road leading to the Sponseller farm, he saw a car he thought was Sponseller's driving away, he testified, so he stopped at the dump to unload some trash.

PICK WALCOTT AS LOUIS FOE

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—It may be an insuperable problem for some to name the logical man to meet Joe Louis for the heavyweight title—but not for the National Boxing Association, which was on record Monday supporting aging Jersey Joe Walcott.

In a surprise move which struck the boxing world at the height of its state of confusion furthered by Mike Jacob's illness and Frank Sinatra's announced-and-denied Walcott bout, the NBA cast its ballot for Walcott at the conclusion of a two-day executive committee meeting.

Move Against Jacobs

The move was generally regarded as an attempt on the NBA's part to take complete control of boxing away from Jacobs and the New York Athletic commission despite an announcement in which the NBA declared it "is not in the matchmaking business."

Louis, who has encountered no difficulty in flattering Billy Conn and Tami Mauriello in his only two bouts since his discharge from military service, was rated all alone as the champion in the NBA's most recent ratings with the logical contender division empty.

The NBA, however, classed Walcott, the father of six, as number one among outstanding boxers. Walcott, whose home is at Merchantville, N. J., started his ring career as a sparring partner for Louis, retired and then made a comeback. He admits to 39 but is probably closer to 40.

Local Miscellany: The Peoples Drug store had an attractive Easter window. The guinea pigs, rabbits and old mother hen with her chicks were admired by old and young alike.

All the churches in town observed the Easter festival on Sunday. Beautiful displays of cut flowers and decorative plants adorned the altars and pulpits. In most of the churches communion services were held in the morning and in the afternoon Sabbath school exercises commemorative of the day.

Wedding Bells: Mr. William H. Troxell, editor of the Emmitsburg "Chronicle," was quietly married at the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, on Thursday morning to Miss Mary Topper.

Greeks Against Turks: Notwithstanding the fact that the Turks seem to have the best of German military advice, they are evidently at a great disadvantage in opposing the Greeks. This is partly due to the more extended line they have to defend, partly to the fact that they are in what is virtually a hostile country. The Greeks are within easy reach of each other and can unite their force at short notice; the Turks are widely separated by a mountainous country with few if any roads available for large bodies of troops or even for artillery.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
BACKGROUND

Walk into any great art museum and note the works of art upon the walls. Not a single one with the same background. Many similar in tone and treatment, but each with a cast to fit what the artist wished most to bring out.

Many of the beautiful backgrounds of a Vermeer are of the softest, pearl-like quality. The late E. V. Lucas, the English publisher and essayist, once said that if he could have but one of these exquisite backgrounds of Vermeer's paintings to hang upon his wall it would be a joy supreme. Something to inspire one at every glance.

All too often we misjudge and find fault with a person, knowing nothing of his background, which might make all the difference in the world as to our judgment of that person. It is well always to bear this in mind.

What is there that we could offer to one who is happy in his own way? Would a Whistler allow another artist to change his painting? Such a thing happened with Alphonse Legros, the French artist. He had finished a beautiful painting, but when Seymour Haden, another artist, and Whistler's brother-in-law, by the way, saw it during the absence of Legros, he carefully changed a certain perspective—but when the real artist returned, and noted it, he immediately changed it back to what it was originally!

Said William James: "Hands off: neither the whole truth nor the whole of good is revealed to any single observer, although each observer gains a partial superiority of insight from the peculiar position in which he stands."

There is a universal something, either of beauty, goodness, or genius, that stands out in a work of art, a poem, or a great piece of literature. That's what makes it live. Its invisible background is left to the imagination and intelligence of the observer.

Nothing is so important for individual judgment as to learn of the background of a person, a country, or of some noted achievement. That is what furnishes the key to any final judgment.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "I Listen!"

LABOR MERGER WOULD PRESENT POWER POLITICS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 22 (AP)—The AFL has asked the CIO to talk about merging the two huge labor organizations.

This won't happen overnight, if it happens. Many problems need settling. The AFL and the CIO have mumbled about the idea several years, done nothing.

The AFL—American Federation of Labor—and the CIO—Congress of Industrial Organizations—are not unions in themselves. They are organizations of unions. The AFL has 104 unions, claiming 7,650,000 members. The CIO has 40 unions with 6,000,000 members.

This latest suggestion of a merger comes when Congress is about to pass the toughest labor laws in history.

A merger would mean a solid labor front of 13,650,000 union workers, all in one organization.

Unlike the AFL, the CIO has taken a strong part in politics. As an organization it backed candidates it considered friends.

Giant In Politics
If the two groups merge and adopt a strong political policy, it will be giant force in national affairs because:

All politicians, including Congressmen, will have to keep in mind the votes of the 13,650,000 union members and their families.

But here are some problems which need settling before a merger: What name would the new organization have: AFL, CIO or a new one?

Would the total 144 unions remain separate? Or would some in the same field, such as seamen and longshoremen, merge into one union?

Since most unions have their own offices and property, a merger of any two unions would require a settlement on the property.

Suppose two unions cutting across the same field, like the AFL teamsters and the CIO transport workers, remained separate. Which would have jurisdiction?

Which name: How would they divide their field between them?

Since AFL and CIO have their own headquarters, large buildings and large staffs, how would they be merged?

Two Kinds Of Unions
Here's a brief history on the AFL and CIO.

There are two kinds of unions: 1. Craft unions—only workers doing one kind of work are members. So carpenters have their own unions, machinists have theirs, and so on.

2. Industrial unions—all workers in one industry, regardless of special skills, are members. Example: Autoworkers, steelworkers.

The AFL, organized 1886, started out as a group of craft unions. The CIO started out in 1935 as a group of industrial unions.

When the depression hit in the 1930's, the AFL, although it had been in existence since 1886, had only 3,000,000 members.

When Congress in 1933 and 1935 passed laws compelling bosses to bargain with unions, unions began to make big strides.

Until then the AFL had been made up mostly of craft unions, although it had some industrial unions, like John L. Lewis' mine workers.

Split Came In 1935
But a split occurred with the AFL in 1935 when some of the AFL leaders, notably Lewis, felt this way:

Greater efforts should be made to organize the new mass production

Increase Reward For Dog Poisoner

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—The two-year-old German shepherd dog of two young children has been offered to Mrs. Marjorie Crumrine, whose seeing eye dog "Boots" was poisoned last week.

Howard Getson, a welder, offered the dog to Mrs. Crumrine, a blind teacher of the blind, after he convinced four-year-old Philip that "Gem" was being sacrificed for a good cause.

But even with this offer, the plight of the lonely, helpless, and still a little frightened teacher is critical.

Her forty students will have to wait before she can again visit their homes in Montgomery, Chester and Delaware counties, unless someone volunteers to take Mrs. Crumrine around to her pupils along the route faithful "Boots" knew so well.

Meanwhile offers have been received to increase a $1,000 reward posted by the Philadelphia Inquirer for the arrest and conviction of the person who poisoned "Boots" with what veterinarians said was either strychnine or some similar substance.

Furniture Store Is Swept By Fire

Tarentum, Pa., April 22 (AP)—Fire last night swept the Siegrist furniture store, located in a three-story frame building on Sixth avenue, resulting in damage estimated by Fire Chief Robert Cornish at $60,000.

Two families were driven from their apartments but no one was injured. About 200 volunteer firemen from Tarentum and Brackenridge battled two hours to bring the flames under control.

Chief Cornish said the fire, of unknown origin, apparently started on the second floor.

Mother Reenacts Slaying Of Child

Pittsburgh, April 22 (AP)—Arraigned on a charge of strangling her red-haired infant daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, 18, of Jeannette, Pa., was committed to Allegheny county jail yesterday to await action by a coroner's jury.

Police Lt. Peter A. Connors said a behavior clinic examination may be sought for the young mother.

The baby, three months old, was found in a west end culvert Friday, its mouth crammed full of tissue paper.

Lt. Connors said Mrs. Smith reenacted the slaying for detectives and signed a statement in which she said she "Didn't want" the baby.

Industries, like rubber and automobiles, still largely unorganized as industrial unions, instead of along craft lines, because they were so vast.

To do just that, Lewis' mine workers and 11 other AFL unions, still within the AFL, organized the CIO.

(It then was called the Committee for Industrial Organization but later was changed to Congress of Industrial Organizations.)

The split widened. The CIO group was expelled altogether from the AFL in 1938.

PROPOSE LOWER LEVY ON OLEO

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—Sen. George B. Scarlett (R-Chester) said today legislation to repeal all state oleomargarine restrictions will be dropped and a measure reducing license fees to $5 for everyone handling the food will be substituted in the legislature.

Scarlett, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, said in an interview "I am very much opposed to any law by which margarine or any other food product could be sold to the public without a full knowledge of what it is buying."

Declaring his proposed bill which already has been drafted and will be introduced shortly has the approval of everyone except "a group of grocers," Scarlett added:

"I am well aware that Pennsylvania has been made a guinea pig of margarine interests. I know that if the license was ruled out here, the next move would be to have the Federal government do the same."

He said his license feature would require manufacturers, jobbers, dealers and other retail outlets to pay a $5 annual license instead of up to $1,000, the present fee for manufacturers. In addition, his measure would require reports to the state on sales.

His measure also would retain the present restrictions, on using

Clear Legal Hurdles On Taxing Powers

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—The administration has hurdled the final legal barrier in drawing up amendment to legislation broadening taxing powers of local municipalities, it was learned today.

The biggest stumbling block, a high administration source explained, was clarification of a provision to permit a local tax on gross receipts of corporations without it coloring before sale and would require restaurants and hotels serving oleomargarine to carry the information on menus.

"That is intended to protect the consumer," Scarlett said of both provisions. "The public has a right to know what it is buying."

A bill to repeal all oleo license and restriction laws enacted in the last 50 years has been on the Senate docket for several weeks without action. Scarlett said his measure will replace that.

being construed as "double taxation" in the face of a present corporate net income levy now imposed by the state.

The measure would allow local political sub-divisions, except Philadelphia which already has a wage tax, to levy taxes "on persons, transactions, occupations, privileges, subjects and personal property," if such levies are not imposed by the commonwealth.

Local wage and sales taxes would also be authorized under the broadened taxing powers asked for municipalities by Gov. James H. Duff to ease the real estate tax burden and provide new revenue for local government, particularly in respect to increasing teachers' salaries.

A HELPING HAND

Chicago, (P)—Patrolman Mike Brosnan has received a $5 payment he never expected.

About a year ago he lent that amount to a man who played a violin for handouts on the near north side. Yesterday he received a letter from New York with the bill enclosed. The writer said he now is running a successful music school in New York.

Chapter 5
The house before which the cab stopped was not pretentious, not even pretty. It was a brown frame with a gabled roof and a doorway that had been worn almost completely bare of grass. But there was an air about the place—an air of homelike dignity—as if this was a house much-used and much-loved. A small dog of uncertain breed wagged his tail in friendly fashion and Martina stooped to pat his head. His eyes gleamed warm in a puckish, mop-like face.

Now that she was here Martina felt her courage ebbing. What sort of woman would open the door to her ring? Would she have to deal with hysteria or perhaps something worse? How could she break the news of the accident gently? She felt wholly inadequate for her self-appointed task. She smiled a little nervously wondering how one of Anne's serial characters would act in a like situation. Anne would know exactly how to handle this.

Brisk footsteps preceded the opening of the door and a small smiling woman with Dan Holloway's black hair and blue eyes stood before Martina. She wore a pretty print housedress and an air of expecting good fortune to arrive in full force at any moment. One got the feeling that this little woman was fibre-tough, that real strength flowed through apparent fragility—that though troubles may have come to her she had defied them to leave their devastating marks upon her.

"Oh, dear," thought Martina, "and it's my lot to dim that beautiful radiance—"

She said, rather than asked, "You're Mrs. Holloway?"

"Why, yes—but I don't believe I know you, my dear. Surely if I'd met you I'd have remembered. Forgive me, but you're so lovely!"

"No—we haven't met. I'm Martina Wayland, and I'm afraid I've come to bring you some rather bad news!"

There was a flashing of alarm in Mrs. Holloway's face, a tightening around the lips and a flutter of hands to throat. "Come in," she said quietly and Martina knew that she need not have feared either hysterics, or the "something worse" for which she had no name. This woman would be in complete command of any situation—even a sorrowful one.

Inside, the rooms were spacious, chintz-hung and charming, but Martina saw only Hattie Holloway's face and knew she must not keep her waiting. Indeed, with a hand on Martina's arm, she herself said urgently, "Tell me at once, dear."

"The slippery street caused it—there's been an accident. Your son, Dan, and Lucy are at General Hospital. Dan was not injured, but Lucy is unconscious."

The hand on her arm tightened. "Still alive?"

"Oh, yes."

There was a moment of complete silence as if Hattie Holloway were consciously drawing on some power 'deep within herself for strength, then she smiled a little unsteadily. "If you'll wait, I'll get my coat and we'll go to the hospital. You can tell me about it on the way."

"I've got the taxi waiting." It did not take long to get back to the hospital, but in that brief time Hattie Holloway had all the details Martina knew. She kept saying over and over, "Lucy will be all right. We've got to believe that!"

The same words she herself had said to Dan earlier, Martina reflected—though she had merely been groping for something comforting to say. This woman spoke with the assurance of experience. She had turned something before that had turned out right because she had so firmly asserted her belief that it would!

Dan met them at the desk in the reception room and took an arm of each. "The doctor said we were to come up to the fifth floor. He may have something to report soon."

Hattie Holloway asked, "What are they doing to her, Dan?"

"There had to be an emergency operation—"

"Mom, I know you said we shouldn't try to go. It's all my fault—"

"Hush! We've more important things to think of than blaming people, Dan Holloway! Don't be stupid!"

The severe words were somehow like balm. Dan relaxed, looked a little less miserable. Then Hattie sat up straighter. "Has anyone thought to get in touch with Nora?"

"By George, no! Why didn't I think of that? Where do I call?"

"Call the nurse's registry. If she's not on a case, ask her to come at once. And Dan, while you're calling, ask Mrs. Reeves next door to tell Mike what's happened when he gets home from school—and ask her to give him a little lunch. The poor boy's always starving!"

"Be back in five minutes," Dan promised.

"I wonder why he didn't think of calling Nora at once?" Hattie mused.

"Who is Nora?" Martina asked a little timidly, for Hattie seemed to have forgotten her.

"Nora Byron. She's a very fine nurse, too. You see, Nora's parents were killed in an accident when she was eight years old and so came to live with us. I always call her my other daughter. She smiled a little. "Someday I hope she'll be my real daughter. I'm quite sure Dan's in love with Nora!"

"Oh, I see."

Dan came back. "I talked to Nora, herself," he cried. "She's on her way over. Pretty lucky—"

"I knew she'd come if she could!" Dan said, "I could still use a cup of coffee, but I guess we'd better wait." His eyes sought Martina's. "Look, are we keeping you from anything important?"

"I did have some appointments," she admitted, "but I'm afraid it's too late for them now. I'll make a few phone calls later. But if you don't mind I'd like to wait for the doctor's report about your sister."

His warm smile enveloped her gratefully. "We'll never forget how kind you've been!"

A tall girl in crisp white came into the reception room.

PHILADELPHIA LUCKY CHOICE

Philadelphia, April 22 (P)—If there is any superstition in the ranks of the leading Republican figures, there is joy today in the news that Philadelphia will be the scene of the 1948 GOP National convention.

For of five conclaves in the Quaker City—four of which were Republican—three of the candidates chosen have been elected President by overwhelming votes.

In the one Democratic convention held, Franklin Delano Roosevelt was chosen to run for his second term in 1936. It was in that year that FDR captured every state but Maine and Vermont.

The first convention in Philadelphia was a stormy affair held by the newly-formed Republican party in 1856. John C. Fremont was chosen as the candidate, but went down to defeat before a Democrat, James Buchanan, in the general election.

Grant and McKinley
In 1872, Ulysses S. Grant was nominated here and subsequently elected to his second term. The 1900 GOP convention chose William McKinley, who was assassinated a short time after assuming office.

But the most spectacular convention here—and perhaps the most spectacular in history—was the 1940 gathering in which Wendell L. Willkie was chosen to oppose Roosevelt. It was during that convocation that the gallery chant "We Want Willkie" swept the hitherto-unknown political figure into the center of the third term controversy in one of the most hotly-contested of all Presidential campaigns.

Almost 20 pounds of coffee per capita was consumed in the United States during 1946.

BILL PROPOSES 6 MILLION FOR STATE COLLEGE

Harrisburg, April 22 (P)—Construction of both temporary and permanent buildings at Pennsylvania State college is proposed in a $6,000,000 supplementary appropriation bill introduced in the Senate last night.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield), says that increased facilities are necessary because of the vast number of World War II veterans who are enrolled, or who are seeking admission.

The college's board of trustees would be authorized to spend the money to build and furnish temporary housing facilities for both students and faculty members.

In addition, money would be provided to supplement funds already allocated for construction of academic buildings.

Some of the money, if the trustees
